

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

"Tuckahoe," and had one son, John, who died in boyhood; 17. William,⁵ 18. Arthur,⁵ 19. Austin,⁵ 20. Thomas,⁵ Richmond city, died September 27, 1832, aged 56; 21. Lucy,⁶ married James Cox.

8. MOORE FAUNTLEROV⁴ BROCKENBROUGH, Richmond county, justice 1797, &c.; married Lucy, widow of Richard Barnes and daughter of William Roane, of Essex. Issue: 22. Lucy,⁵ married — Shackleford, of King and Queen county; 23. Mary,⁵ married John Lackie, of Norfolk; 24. Elizabeth,⁵ married Philip Woodward; 25. William,⁵ died at sea, unmarried; 26. *Moore F.*⁵

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

COCKE GENEALOGY.

In the July number of the Virginia Magazine, in the "Genealogy of the Cocke Family," page 76, there is a note which I desire to correct, as the only surviving child of Mrs. Elizabeth Marion Cocke Trezevant, who was the only child who married and left issue, of Buller Cocke and Elizabeth Barron his wife. The said Elizabeth married Dr. Lewis Cruger Trezevant, only child of Judge Lewis Trezevant, of Charleston, South Carolina. The judge died in 1808, at the early age of thirty-nine years, having been nine years on the bench; "he was the youngest judge who had ever been appointed." The Trezevants were a Huguenot family, mentioned by Ramsay in his "History of the United States," as coming to America, 1685, soon after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. I might give you page, &c., if my notes were not in America. Colonel James Trezevant, as he was always called, who represented the Southampton district in Congress in 1825-31, and was in the Convention of 1829-30, was a cousin of Dr. Lewis Cruger Trezevant, being a son of Dr. John Trezevant, a surgeon during the Revolution, who left South Carolina with the army, and later settled in Virginia. I cannot account for the statement that "the family came from Maine."

Dr. Lewis Cruger Trezevant was the father of the gallant Colonel Edward Buller Trezevant, whose biography you will find in "General Bedford Forrest's Cavalry," by Strange. He lost his life at Spring Hill, before Columbia, Tenn.

The Barrons deserve a full sketch from the State of Virginia, as in the early days they did much service, and in the family of Captain James Barron Hope, the commission of "Commander-in-Chief of the State Navy" was transmitted from Com. Samuel Barron, signed by Thos. Jefferson, then President of the United States.

I have written in haste, having just received my Magazines, without my papers, but on my return I shall be glad to furnish any further information I may possess.

BETTY T. KEIM.

Homburg, December 30, 1897.